

December 14, 2002

Dear Lynn,

Please forgive me for not knowing your complete name, and I gave the last copy of your book, HERE COMES THE GUIDE, to a couple whom I married during the summer.

You and I met at a wedding at a restaurant in San Francisco many years ago. Your book had just been published and a second edition was already in progress. You were kind enough to list my name in that second edition.

Now I come to you with a recommendation. The person is JEFF OLIVER. He is a DJ as you know and he called me today asking if I would be able to recommend him, as a DJ, for listing in your book, THE GUIDE.

I do certainly give Jeff Oliver an unqualified recommendation. I base my recommendation on the one time I had the good fortune of working with him at a wedding.

The place was Treasure Island. The wedding in the naval Chapel there. Jeff contacted me well before the date of the wedding. He asked if there was anything I needed, informed me of the services he provided and of his willingness to meet whatever needs I might have.

He was there at the wedding well ahead of time, prior to my arrival anyway and I am normally at a wedding 45 minutes before time. He gave me a wireless lapel microphone, turned it on, attached it to me and cared for the sound from there on.

It was at the reception that Jeff's talents as a DJ were most impressive. His creativity caught your attention and his enthusiasm seemed to be infectious. Insert the pug into the outlet and the tree lights up. Jeff in the context of the reception brought incredible life and joy and happiness to the reception. He even participates in some of the dances. For the only time in my life, my wife and I were doing "the chicken". We never dance at all usually. My wife, Helga, still talks about Jeff, every now and then, as she remembers that reception: warm, loving, enthusiastic, life of the party.

Jeff Oliver will be a very reliable addition to the already rich resources provided by your magnificent book.

May your success be never-ending, Lynn.

Joseph T. Steinke

510-471-3468
510-324-3670 Fax

32419 Lake Temescal Lane
Fremont, CA 94555-1078