To all those who want to be entertained:

In our business, we cater events week in and week out. We relish the opportunity to work with quality, fellow vendors at corporate events, weddings, anniversaries, and other celebrations. Jeff Oliver is not only one of them, he is at the top of the list.

Our relationship with Jeff started in December 1996. We were hired to cater a wedding in San Francisco on a very stormy Saturday night. This particular evening became a nightmare due to a major power outage across the city, which also affected the reception site. The bride, groom, and their families were devastated. Almost two years of planning were ruined. En route from his Antioch home, he called a friend in San Francisco to bring a generator to the banquet. Jeff saved the day! He gave a party that is still talked about today by the bride and groom.

Clients constantly ask us for recommendations for various types of services. When they are looking for entertainment, DJ Jeff is the first person that comes to mind. He gets to know his audience. Jeff builds on the energy of everybody in the room to get people onto the dance floor. We've seen him take a group of 40 Swedish Engineers and teach each one to line dance. He feels the crowd out and chooses the right music for the mood. Jeff also goes the extra mile to listen to his clients' needs and make sure their wishes are carried out down to the last detail. When appropriate, he opens his trunk of props to add even more life to the party. Jeff has many unique and unforgettable touches that he puts into each and every event. Every one of my clients that has booked Jeff has been more than satisfied.

On a personal note, Jeff entertained at my wedding. He played guitar while my sister sang at the ceremony. He recorded our vows and gave us a cassette of the ceremony. He really made my wedding a memorable experience. Jeff even danced with my 98-year-old grandmother, leaving a smile on her face for many days to come. As the banquet room was closing, my guests still wanted more!

It is clear that Jeff is not only a professional. He cares about each and every event he hosts. I have the pleasure on many occasions to see Jeff put his heart and soul into his work. He doesn't disappoint, and he always gives 110%.

It is my honor and pleasure to recommend DJ Jeff to anyone who is looking for quality and fun entertainment.

Cheers!
